(b) If a graduate registered physician leaves employment with a supervising physician and does not begin employment with another supervising physician within ten days, the graduate registered physician's license becomes inactive and the graduate registered physician must reapply for initial licensure in order to regain the license.

Subd. 4. Scope of practice. (a) A graduate registered physician may only provide health care services under the supervision of a licensed physician and in accordance with any applicable policies of the health care facility, and must work under a protocol drafted by the supervising physician and approved by the board that:

(b) A graduate registered physician may perform the duties delegated by the supervising physician, which may include prescribing, ordering, and administering drugs and medical devices, and issuing patient care orders, except that a graduate registered physician's prescribing authority shall not exceed the prescribing authority of the supervising physician. The supervising physician may designate one or more additional back-up physicians who agree to supervise the graduate registered physician when the supervising physician is absent.

(c) The supervising physician must be identified on all prescriptions and orders issued by the graduate registered physician.

(d) A graduate registered physician is considered the agent of the supervising physician in the performance of all health-care-related activities.

4.16 from using the term "graduate registered physician" or any combination or abbreviation of 4.17 the term to indicate or imply that the individual is licensed under this section.

4.18 (b) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a health care professional from
4.19 using a title incorporating any of the words specified in paragraph (a), or from using a title
4.20 or designation that is not specifically protected in paragraph (a), if the title or designation
4.21 used is permitted under the health care professional's practice act.
