

employees as the ordinance may designate the power to serve a written or printed notice upon persons charged with violations or to post such notice at the place of violation; but such power shall be confined to violations of the ordinances enumerated in this act and such officers and employees shall not be authorized to arrest or otherwise take a violator into custody except when done by a peace officer upon a warrant of arrest duly issued.

Sec. 2. [493.02] Disposal of violations. When an ordinance violations bureau has been established, violations of ordinances within the jurisdiction of the bureau shall be disposed of as provided in Minnesota Statutes 1957, Section 492.04, and acts amendatory thereof relating to traffic violations bureaus. Compliance with the procedure specified in that section shall have the same effect as a judgment of conviction entered upon a plea of guilty in open court, and the violator shall be given a receipt which so states.

Sec. 3. [493.03] Records; fines and other collections. An ordinance violations bureau established pursuant to this act shall keep a record of all cases of violation brought before it, including their final disposition, and also a record of all fines collected and the disposition thereof. Fines and other moneys collected by the bureau shall be disposed of in the same manner as if guilt had been determined in court. The bureau shall also perform such additional duties and keep such additional records as are prescribed by the court or in the ordinance authorizing establishment of the bureau.

Sec. 4. [493.04] Limitation on effect. This act does not affect any ordinance violations bureau established by special law, nor does it limit the authority of any court under any other statutory or charter provision to provide for the disposition of violations in any other manner.

Approved April 10, 1961.
