CHAPTER 216.

S. F. No. 246.

An act to provide for the payment of claims against the state for animals killed under the provisions of chapter 141, Laws of 1903.

Whereas, chapter 141 of the Laws of 1903 was unintentionally repealed by chapter 352 of the laws of the same session, and, whereas, the public authorities of said state have in good faith proceeded under the terms of said chapter 141, and have in many cases appraised and killed animals of the classes therein referred to, therefore

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. That all proceedings heretofore taken under and according to the terms of said chapter 141 of the Laws of 1903, or the law of which it was amendatory, relating to the condemnation, appraisement and killing of the class of diseased animals therein described, are hereby in all respects validated, and each and every person in said state owning any animals so killed and appraised shall be paid the amount he would have been entitled to under said law, the same as if the same had not been so repealed, out of the money heretofore or hereafter appropriated for the purpose.

Condemnation of deceased animals.

The president and secretary of the state live stock sanitary board are hereby authorized to examine all claims presented under this act, and if they find and certify that such claims come within its intent and meaning, such claims shall be paid, otherwise not. Provided, that no claim shall be paid unless presented within six (6) months after the passage of this act.

Limit to payment of claims.

SEC. 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Approved April 17, 1905.
